Two days later...

So I'll be out of the country for awhile.

Lieutenant Dalia

Keep an eye on Mia until I get back.

I have a bad feeling.

My gut is telling me Rin did something to Mia.

There was something different about her eyes after the interrogation.

I know we erased the fake personality, but... It's possible we missed some hidden trigger.

Hmm... Okay.

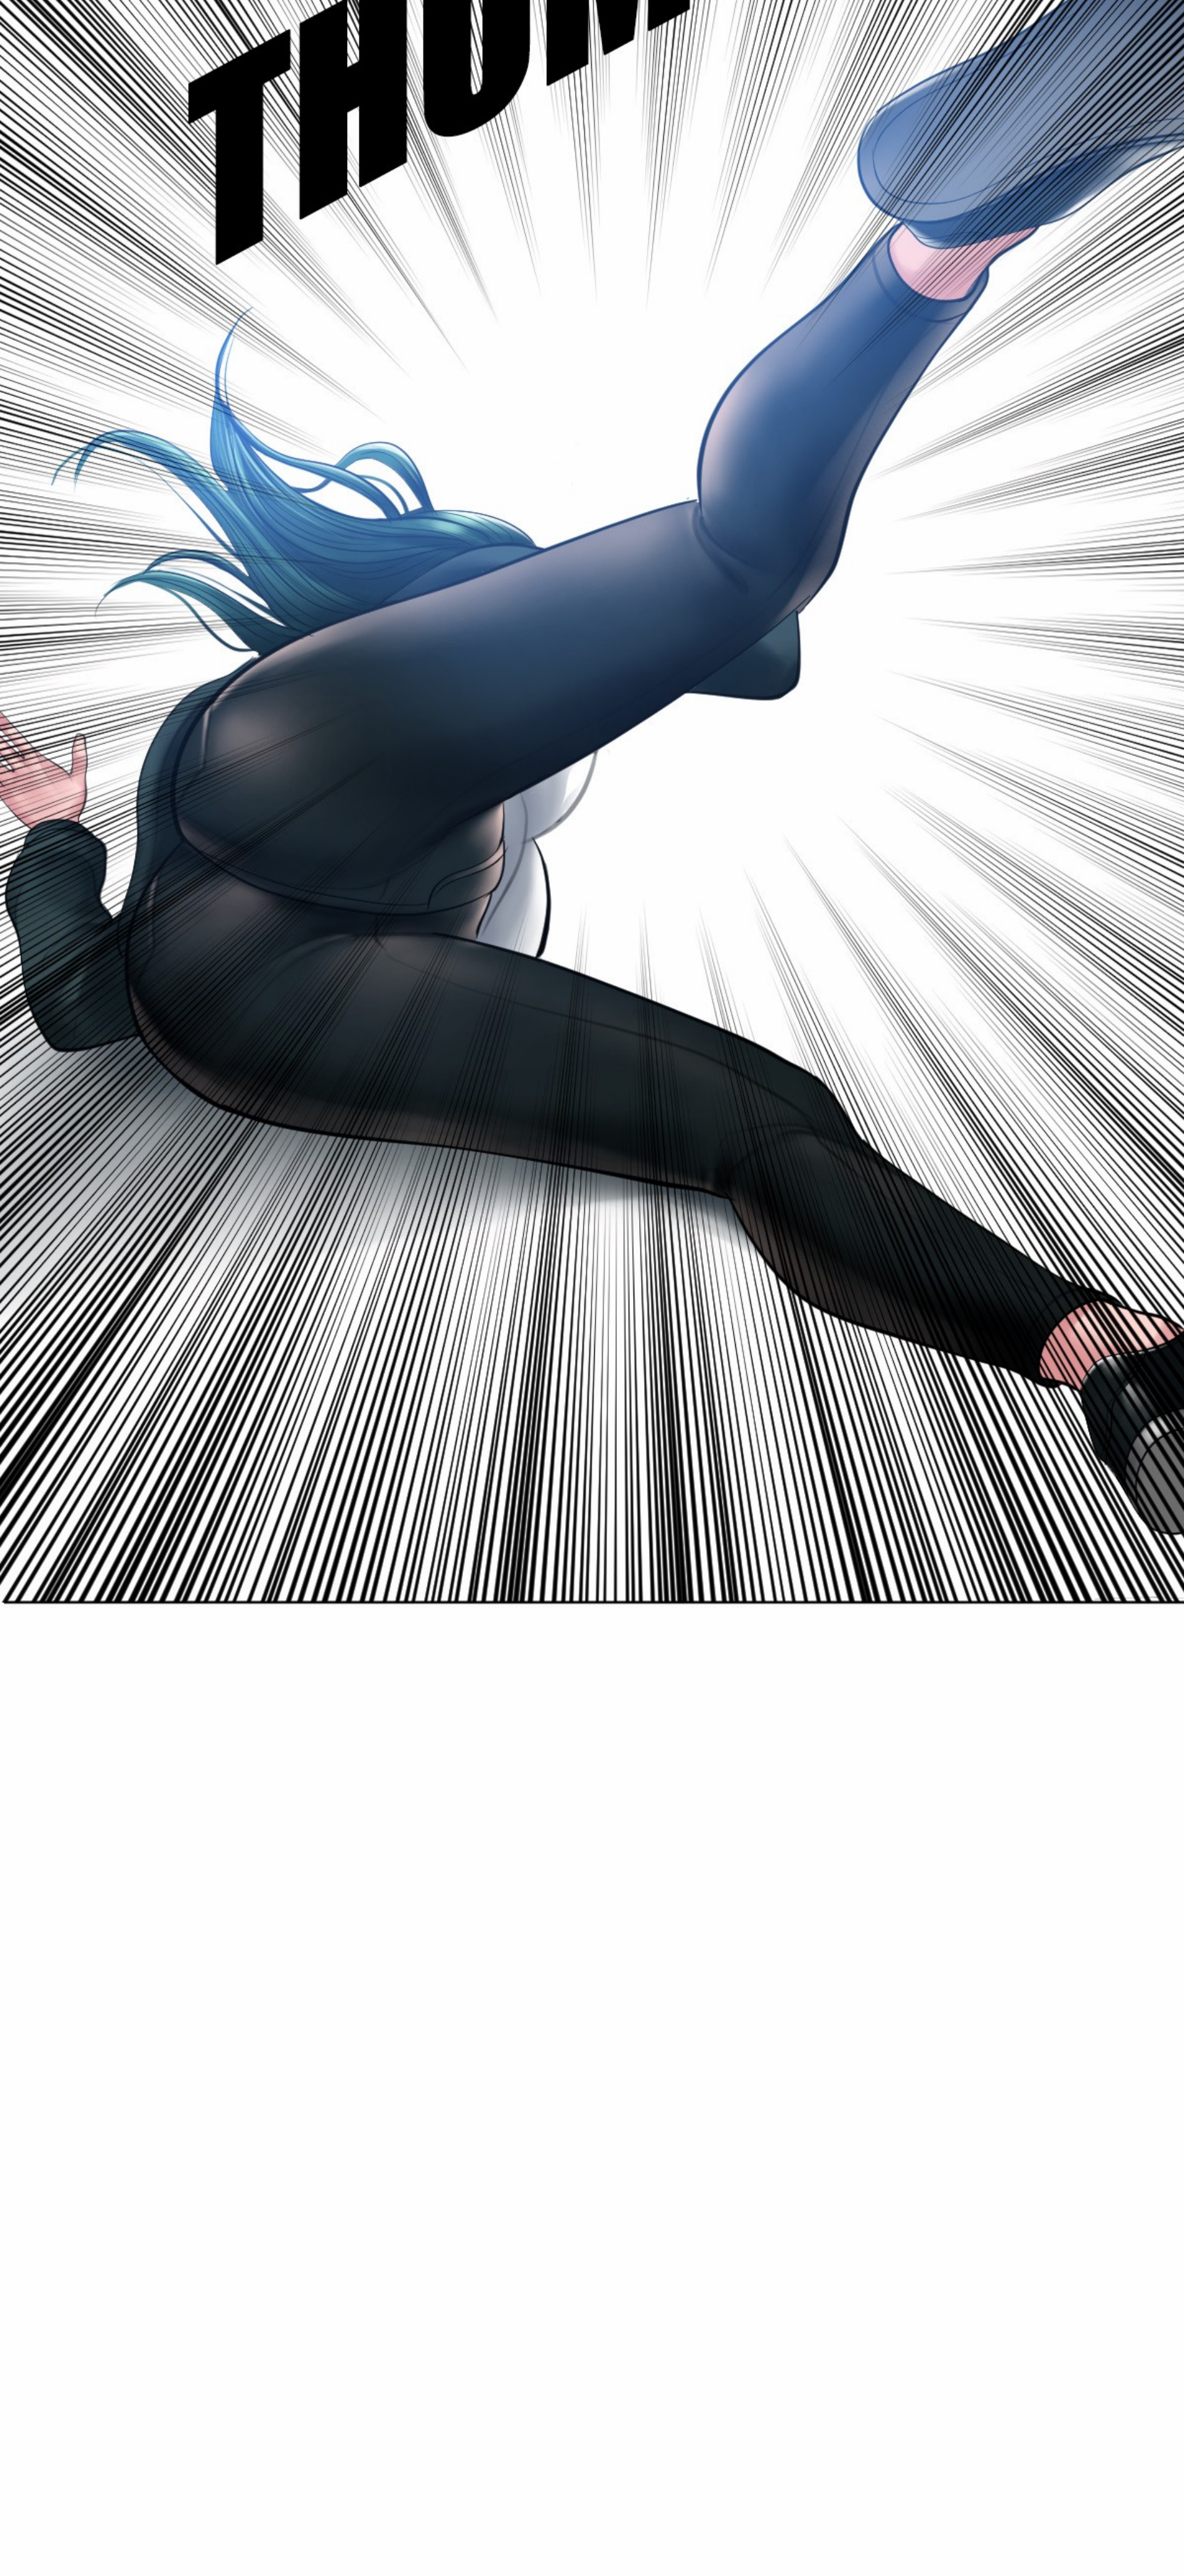

Since you're the one asking, I'll do it. I'll tail her for a few days.

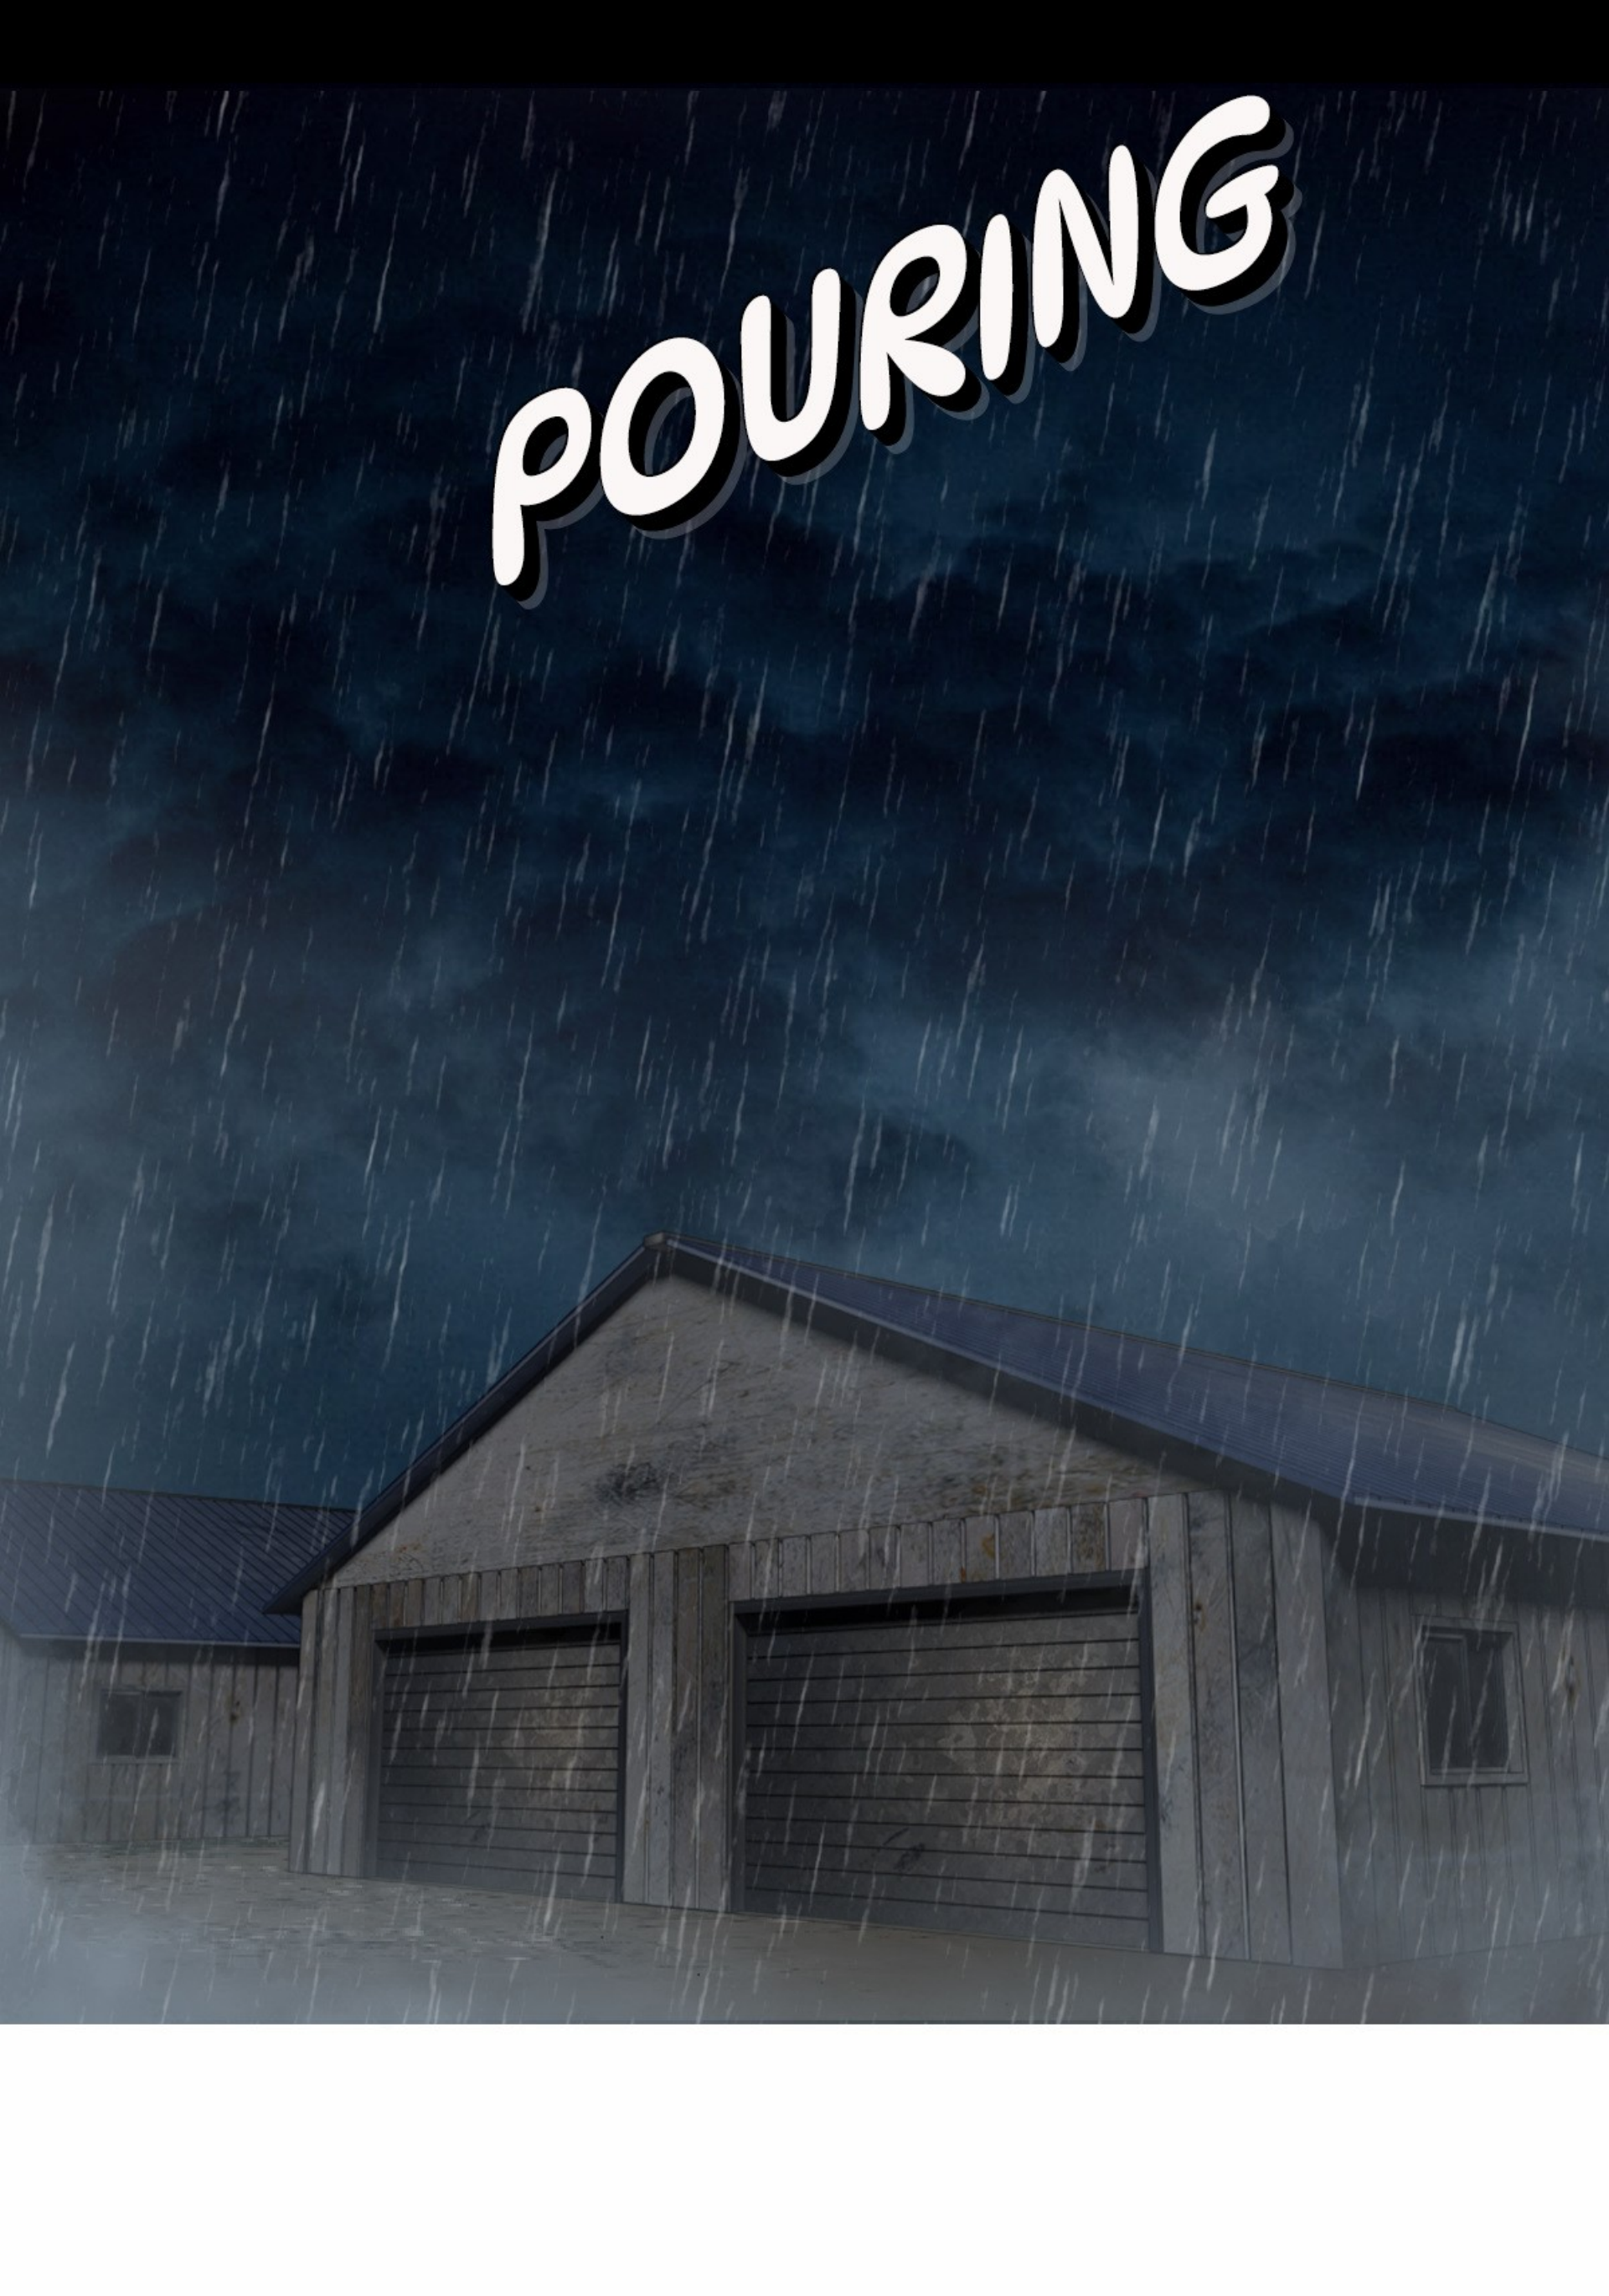

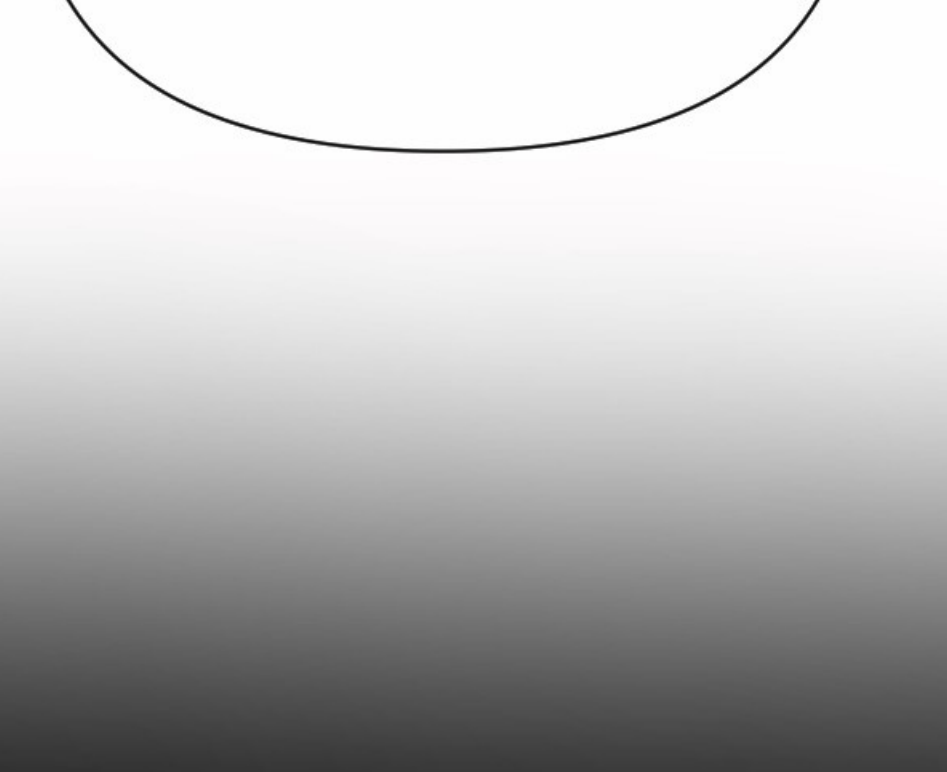

No way...

PELT

Hehehe...
I was in contact with the cartel the day I left the cross examination.

하하 ♡

And I've brought somethin' much more interestin' than that.

A new product from the cartel, that I haven't even tried out yet...

?!

It looks like an ordinary plant, but accordin' to the dealer...

it emits pheromones that humans can't perceive,

and just a quick whiff can significantly lower judgment, morals, and sexual shame.

In other words...

Ha...

Haahh♡

Even a cop as principled as you...

can be corrupt into a criminal!

Maladea

A genetically modified plant developed by cartel researchers.

It closely resembles the African violet in appearance, making it hard to distinguish at a glance.

Exposure to the pheromone emitted by this plant rapidly damages the brain regions responsible for self-control and shame, leading to a compulsive pursuit of pleasure.

Critical thinking abilities are significantly impaired, making individuals highly susceptible to external stimuli and brainwashing.

While the speed of onset varies among individuals, addiction typically occurs within a minute.

There is a hypothesis that individuals with strong mental resilience may experience slower onset, though this has yet to be confirmed.

The cartel has also developed a drug to prevent addiction, which has already been administered to several members, including Jin Mia.
