

Brunettes have more fun

MAY 2021

Lera was a naive young girl from Eastern Europe, who moved to the US hoping to be discovered by the modelling industry and become a big movie star or fashion model. However, she learned the hard way that success is never easy. After being turned down countless times she got so desperate she tried an audition as a porn actress just to survive as she did not want to come back home as a loser. However, even the porn industry was extremely competitive and Lera, as a plain blonde girl did not have great hopes of success. She was told by her agent that if she wanted better roles she would have to alter her appearance.

She was offered a package of cosmetic surgeries in exchange of a binding contract for a few years. Lera was so desperate she signed the deal. In a few years she would be able to have a real career in the modelling industry with a better appearance, she told herself.

However, it turned out not to be how she had hoped. They began modifying her basic appearance. With a new technique, Lera's real blonde hair was replaced with long, wavy black hair. In keeping with her darker look, her eye color was changed as well to a very deep brown hue. A slight tan, a general remodelling of her facial features did the rest to give her a Hispanic appearance.

She was so shocked at how different she looked, she tried to avoid looking at herself in the mirror as much as she could. She had always had compliments on her blonde hair and fair complexion and couldn't understand how her darker complexion would make her more attractive.

They had made clear that the surgeries were expensive and that she would be required to pay them back, however it was not clear to her that her new main source of income would be being a high-class escort rather than an actress, even if a porn actress.

Lera threatened them to call the police but then realised that they had stolen her passport and with her altered appearance no embassy would provide her a new one.

She made an attempt to get a job in the modelling industry but she soon discovered that her darker appearance now made a career in modelling more difficult as they were primarily searching for blonde girls.

Lera reluctantly agreed to the demeaning role of high-class escort just to realise that she would start her new career as a street hooker, to eventually earn the position of call escort if she was popular enough.

Lera was so ashamed of what had become of her. What would her family say to her if they knew she was now a call girl? She still couldn't believe this was her real life!

Lera used to be a shy, cute and a bit boring blonde girl who grew up in the Easter European countryside so she struggled to impersonate the role of a confident, sensual Latina she was required to play from now on. Her first clients complained about that so her boss decided to make her smoke some weed to relax her a bit.

The drug helped to make her less tense, her looks and skimpy outfits did the rest so she eventually began to satisfy her clients and to earn some decent money. It was intoxicating how much she could make by performing oral sex or anal sex and she also became more and more talented in pleasuring men so she accepted her situation more and more as time went on, until she had to admit to herself she actually liked being a prostitute.

With the new name of Valeria Garcia, the girl grew more and more confident in her body and role. She learned to turn her Slavic accent into a Spanish one and eventually began acting like a Latina prostitute the whole time, even when she was with herself. Her new mannerisms came natural to her now, slutty outfits were all she ever wanted to wear and even during her free time nobody would ever doubt she was a call girl.

Her income grew as she fit more into her role, until one day she realised she was close to paying back all her debts.

At that point she would have been free to pursue the career of her dreams but was that still what she was dreaming of?

Valeria looked at herself in the mirror and realised that there was no going back to a normal life. Even if she were to make it as an actress she could never hide the slutty attitude that was now second nature to her. She managed to get a fake Mexican birth certificate that would grant her at least a passport for the time being but if she were to become famous, her identity would get questioned and her shameful story would be all over the news. So Valerie preferred to stay in the shadow, alternating small parts as a porn actress and being a high class escort like she was supposed to.

As for her new appearance, she had to admit that it turned out to be a definite upgrade, being an exotic brunette was definitely more fun than being the boring, plain blonde girl like she was used to be.

She eventually completely forgot her old identity and embraced being an Hispanic whore.
