<Long Distance Production>

by <Growing Desires>

Chapter Fifteen

The next morning, I woke up first and I left a tall glass of water next to Alice on the sofa. She still looked huge under the blanket, I could see the swell of her belly and her boobs had slipped out from under the cover. I let my eyes linger for a few seconds too long and I picked up my phone.

You

I'm coming to see you today.

Anna

I know.

You

I am so excited. Words cannot express it.

Anna

I think you are going to be more excited when you see me for sure.

You

What do you mean?

Anna

Well... It's been a while... How are you not going to just cum immediately?

You

Good point.

Anna

You're making me blush.

You

You're the one who said it.

Anna

I know, but you were the one thinking it.

You

Yeah... I can't wait to feel your big, beautiful body under my palms.

Anna

Me neither.

Anna had moved her mother out, she was still living there until I finished the production, she had cleaned the place up and was in the process of selling it but she wanted me to come to see her for some reason, she said it was to see her town one last time before she left but I sensed something else was up.

The trailer moved and shook. I turned to the sofa where Alice was sleeping. She was now sitting up, her belly was resting between her thick thighs and her tits weighed heavily on top.

"What did we do last night..." Alice said, mostly scared.

"Nothing." I reassured her. "You don't remember anything?"

"Not very clearly..."

I caught her up on the events of last night, I left the flirting out of it and told her about Anna again, this time with some more detail. She was shocked at first, but she was just more glad that she didn't do something stupid last night. She had told me about Henry and what happened, he did say she was getting almost too big, but Alice walked out because she was enjoying the weight gain.

"I... Think I love this more than him..." She gestured to her body. "I don't think... I don't think I want to stop... Not yet..." She blushed, confiding in me.

"Well... I've got a whole world to show you Alice..." I fired up the laptop and showed her. "This is where I met Anna..."

I handed the laptop to her and let her just browse for a few minutes to herself. The busty woman's cheeks grew more flush by the second. I picked up my phone and started to make arrangements to head down to Anna's.

After a morning like that, I needed to reassure Alice that she would find someone, I knew there were plenty of people out there like me. She was very grateful for compassion and help; she gave me a hug and made me blush when her body squished against me. Alice enjoyed the reaction, as harmless as it was.

I finalised the last of the preparations for the clear up and I departed the site to let the contractors remove the final pieces. Another successful project, or at least so far, when it came to the silver screen is when we would truly know the impact of our work today.

I no longer cared; I was sitting in the back of a car being driven to the airport for the first available flight. I couldn't waste a single second; I needed to get to Anna immediately. Alice's interaction only fuelled the pent-up energy within me.

Maybe cumming instantly isn't that far fetched...

I looked at the bulge in my pants as it throbbed sitting in the plane. I tried to calm down, thankfully there were no distractions in first class. I had left my phone in flight mode, mostly so that I didn't give into the urge to do anything with myself after sending messages to Anna. Landing and turning my phone back on I had received a bunch of work-related messages that I chose to ignore. I even had a message off of Alice and Henry. Something that could most likely wait, there was only one notification that I was interested in.

Anna's...

Anna

I hope you've landed safely by the time you read this; I can't wait to see you... remember what I wanted...

Food!

I was picked up by a driver I hired. It was a very nice man with a great accent from the area, something that Anna didn't seem to have inherited. He was a lovely man who was more than happy to take me through a drive through to get a large order of burgers.

I tipped him handsomely and got out of the car, standing in the middle of the countryside. The for-sale sign on the lawn said sold and I beamed.

She kept that from me.

It meant that she was going to be able to move sooner than I had thought. The home itself was an amazing old one-story home, the garden was pretty big and there seemed to be a lot of rooms. Walking down the driveway to the front door I could see the house stretch far into the distance.

No stairs, less calories burnt off.

I knocked on the door and felt my phone vibrate.

---

Anna

Come in, door's unlocked...

---

I felt my hand tremble as I reached out for the door handle, and I nervously opened the door. I wasn't sure why I was nervous, there just seemed to be some sort of tense feeling in the air.

"In here!" Anna's voice called out from further in the home.

"Marco!"

"Polo!" she called back.

I followed the beautiful voice that was beckoning me like a siren's call. My hair was standing on their ends as I walked through some long hallway that was devoid of any pictures but from the marks on the wall it was obvious that there must've been some family pictures up at one point.

"Marco..." I called out.

"Polo" Anna's voice was lower, she was no longer shouting, she was close, very close, I saw a door open ajar.

"Mar-" I laid eyes on Anna, and I immediately froze.

Anna was sitting before me, her wide body taking up the entire three-seater to herself. I saw how her hip was billowing over the arm of the chair and assumed as much for the other side as her body was sitting in the middle. Anna's face looked at me with a lusty burning in her eyes. Her long blonde hair cascaded over the back of the sofa and to the floor, pooling at the bottom, as I walked around the sofa I was able to see more detail of her incredible transformation. I could see how pale she had become since I last saw her.

It was as if she hadn't left the house...

I saw the laptop on the table to the side of the sofa, I saw an inbox on the screen, it appeared that she was working from home now.

By necessity at this point?

Her body wasn't covered, there was no real way to cover how big she was now, her bra was stretched tight over her tits which were a modest size but compared to her lower portions they were nothing. Each of her legs were easily double my body in width. Cellulite covered her fat thighs, and she leaned back and let me take in all of her transformation.

Her belly was huge, hanging and fat, as Anna wriggled herself to sit at the edge of the sofa I saw how her stomach hung low like a fat apron. I just stood there shocked and aroused beyond belief.

Her tongue unfurled her response with a seductive smile. "Po... Lo..."
