

(Warning: This story contains female muscle, female muscle growth, muscle worship, and graphic sexual content)

James had never been a popular guy, in the high school natural order he had unfortunately fallen under the category of nerd or geek. His short slim build and glasses had designated him as such a long time ago, not helped that his interests were unfortunately stereotypical, dooming him to be picked on by the jocks and the popular kids. The only people he could ever hang out with were others like himself.

His friendships were valued, but was it wrong for him to want more? That in the last year of high school, at eighteen years old he'd never escape this inane 'social dynamic?' James dreaded it would follow him all the way to college and the rest of his life.

There were so many things he needed to get done so he'd escape this unfair mark. So many things he still wanted to accomplish. He'd yet to successfully invite someone to prom, he never got to ask the girl of his dreams on a date, but he never dared to... and even if he did, he was sure she'd never see him as anything more than a friend.

Clarissa never failed to take his breath away, she was such a stunning sight in everything she did. Her lightly tanned skin complemented nicely her beautifully and seemingly endless wavy blonde locks, her green eyes always made his heart flutter with their kindness. And her voice, so musical and perfect, her laugh was like the sweetest sonata. Clarissa was outstanding, easily one the most beautiful girls in school, the kind jocks and popular would ask out but she wasn't vain, she wasn't superficial like those other air-headed bimbos. No, she was special.

As James watched her run around the tracking field, he couldn't help but feel she remained forever out of reach, even as she neared the finish line, she never seemed to come closer...

What chance did a little geek like him stand? A lean fit beauty like her on her way to college with a sports scholarship would never even entertain the possibility of dating him. Of... caring for him like he did her.

...But what if she could?

What if... she just needed a little push? So, she'd see him with new eyes.

He had wrestled with the morality of this since it first entered his mind. And questioned himself every step of the way but... in the end, his heart yearned for something unattainable. And the two would surely be better off together, he'd treat her right.

He just needed her to see it too.

With her back turned to him, finishing her stretches (and inadvertently giving him a good look at her faintly toned legs and back), James slipped the compound he had been working on into her drink as discretely and as swiftly as he could, pocketing the empty vial in his pocket and swiftly screwing the plastic bottle cap once more. Hopefully, the sport's drink flavor would mask any lingering chemical...

He grabbed the bottle and approached her, his heart beating furiously every step of the way. Her wavy blonde locks swayed in her ponytail as she turned her head, smiling oh so beautifully at him. "Thanks, James," She said gratefully, grabbing the bottle.

He almost tore his head, wanting her to drink it but watching with mounting desperation how it remained on her head as she checked her pulse. "What was the time?"

"T-Twenty-seven seconds faster"

"Yes!" She pumped her fist. "Better than last time"

Drink it, please drink it. He desperately thought.

His heart stopped as she twisted the plastic cap open and brought it to her lips.

This was it. This was the moment he was waiting for. If his calculations were right, Clarissa would form a powerful emotional attachment with the first person she saw. He went to great lengths to calculate the right time the two would be alone, so her eyes would only fall on him...

She emptied half the bottle until she finally stopped with a satisfied gasp, cleaning her lips.

His hopes soared high when her green eyes fell on him.

A moment passed, then another.

Then she frowned, "Are you... okay? You keep staring"

And just like that, his hopes were scorched by the uncaring sun.

Of course... of course, it did not work.

Why would it? The girl of his dreams wouldn't fall for him in any conceivable way after all.

It was just a fantasy...

"Just... stuck thinking on the upcoming tests" He muttered, trying to keep his voice as steady as possible. "You got any study partner?"

"Oh, I can always make time for a friend!" She said brightly and playfully punched him in the shoulder. "But I think you'd be teaching me far more than I could teach you!" And laughed cheerfully.

Friend... how much he loathed the word.

X~X~X~X~X

Clarissa loved running; she had poured countless hours of training ever since she knew she wanted to pursue track field. There was something so... liberating whenever she set off from the starting line and followed along the tracks, focusing not on her competition or the crowd, but on that goal in front of her. Her body and mind were one as she gave it her all until her legs burned and exhaustion filled her limbs. Never stop until she was running on empty, that was her motto.

But right now the fuel seemed endless, for Clarissa had been going around the block for what felt like hours. And given how the sun was setting it wasn't hyperbole...

She couldn't understand how she could keep running and running and running, yet her limbs performed with endless locomotion, even after training at the school. She had returned home and instead of relaxing for the rest of the day she still felt she had extra energy to burn off.

Clarissa couldn't stop, or perhaps could it be said she didn't want to? This boundless energy was giving her a runner's high like no other. She was breaking her limits and surpassing any previous records by a mile (or rather miles given how long she'd been running).

But it felt... wrong as well. Like this wasn't supposed to be, this energy was unnatural, she couldn't keep running without an end in sight. All races had to end, that was the point. But if she wasn't careful, then her mind wouldn't see a goal and just keep running endlessly.

Her legs were burning but it was a good sensation, a good burn. The strain on her muscles was noticeable but not painful, her prized limbs urged her to continue. To keep running until she left everything behind but the unreachable goal, never stop, keep going and get faster, stronger...

Clarissa shook her head, almost snarling as she finally forced herself to a stop.

She rested on her knees and panted, sweat trailing down the sides of her face and dripping under her chin. The workout t-shirt and shorts were drenched with sweat, yet it didn't feel like she had been running for as long as she had. This impossible task had taken far less out of her than official competitions had in the past.

Clarissa was half tempted to keep running once she caught her breath, but instead, she wisely walked home.

She was alone at this time, just her and her thoughts. But those thoughts were intrusive, her mind still reeled from what she had accomplished today. She went to the bathroom and splashed her face with water, looking at herself in the mirror. The flushed wet face wasn't tired, just... baffled. How could she still be running high? How could her legs not have snapped off yet?

A pat at said limbs made her freeze, for she made contact with something larger and harder than she was used to.

She looked down, astonished at the tone of her legs. They had always been toned given her sport of choice, but... they looked very fit now, like she had doubled her squat routine and had been going at it for months. Clarissa slowly trailed a hand over their mound, feeling the faint lines of muscle separating them.

It felt... intriguing.

And the quads weren't alone, she noticed her forearm was rather toned as well. Her eyes trailed upward and stared at the small bicep brushing against the sleep. She had always complimented her training by working the other parts, never neglecting anything, and yet... she shouldn't have this level of tone. It was impossible.

Just as impossible as it had been running for hours around the block without collapsing.

What was happening to her? What... What was this?

How could she have changed so much since this afternoon? She was still... normal after she had said goodbye to James.

"Ugh," She felt a pang in her chest, the moment she thought of him her heart did a weird jump.

And her muscles flexed on their own... tightening, the lines becoming a bit deeper.

Her arms were swelling, as though being pumped with air. Forearms widened in circumference, pushing outward with greater tone. Clarissa tried to hold it back with a hand, panicking as she failed to stifle the growth but failed, her fingers spread over its surface.

"Hgn!" The blonde staggered as if struck, her toned legs were gaining more mass by the second. The muscles sharpened and expanded in girth, her feet were coaxed inside her tennis shoes while the calves swelled past her shins. The quadriceps filled up, power coiled inside the tensing muscle groups, popping into existence and rippling mightily. The fabric on her shorts tightened around the impressive thighs, cuffing the limbs while her glutes expanded outward.

Her runner's build was being obliterated, reforged by a crossfit level athlete with a notable v-shape as her lats widened, flaring out like wings and straining her shirt further. The fabric clung to her abs, highlighting their stunning definition as the first row became free the more the shrinking article of clothing hiked up.

Clarissa grunted, she almost tumbled forward and was forced to hold onto the sink for support. She looked down with quivering eyes at her arms, shocked at how her biceps grew exponentially. Liquid power burst to the surface of her skin as veins throbbed into existence, covering the growing muscles like roads on a map. The strength in her limbs could not be denied as her fingers dug into the sink, breaking the material and spreading a jagged web of cracks on both ends.

Her back expanded, broadening and spreading the breadth of her muscles. The shirt tightened so much it was almost paper-thin, yet despite the soft tearing sounds, it would not give up. Clarissa gasped and let go of the sink, stumbling back against the bathroom door. She panted rapidly, swelling breasts pushing the shirt and creating a cleavage window for them to know some respite, their heaviness was supported by the strong pectoral muscles that were forming a rip above them, framed by the rising hills of traps and the expanding neck muscles.

“Why is this happening?!” She asked in disbelief to no one. “Why am I...?! Mnmgh!” She stifled a moan as a wave of arousal overcame her, her nipples hardened and jutted out, lifting two tents under her shirt and bra. “J-James!”

She didn’t know why she called out his name, why her muscles flexed harder and larger when she did. Clarissa couldn’t understand why she felt compelled to flex her newfound muscles, or why the act of making them push through the fabric felt like such a turn-on...

The blonde’s left hand sneaked inside her pants, underneath her panties where she began fingering herself. Tweaking with the bundle of nerves and brushing over her wet folds. All while flexing her right arm repeatedly, licking her lips, and staring enamored at the bicep pumping larger still, the fabric weakening against it...

When it tore and left her bicep bare, Clarissa’s orgasm too broke free. Making her eyes roll back as a shrill moan escaped her lips, throwing her head back in ecstasy as pleasure filled her.

She panted, staring at her own reflection... Good god, she looked like a bodybuilder. Her track-field career was ruined with this body. Not only that, her entire social life would be thrown over its head, she couldn’t come back to school and let people see her like this! She had gained like forty pounds of muscle in an instant.

Something... Something strange happened to her. Something that defied all explanation. She needed to talk to someone. A doctor- no, they’d inform her family. Maybe... Maybe someone who knew her, who’d know about weird science stuff, and most importantly who wouldn’t say a word.

The answer became clear in her mind; it was the same word that had been repeated nonstop in her head for the last few minutes.

“James...” She muttered, her lips dry. “Need to... go to James”

X~X~X~X~X

James was preparing himself for a dinner alone after a long depressing day, which consisted of nothing but cereal in a bowl of milk. His parents were gone for the weekend, which was fine, he just needed to have a good long sulk after today.

The disappointment and heartbreak he felt after failing on his last chance to secure Clarissa’s heart would not leave, and it’d be a while until he’d finally process it healthily. But for now he’d drown his sorrows with sugary treats and a good dose of internet, tomorrow maybe he’d feel a lot better.

Perhaps it was for the best. This... obsession wasn’t good for him, or anyone else for that matter. He needed to learn to let things go and just make up his own life instead of blaming everything on the unfairness of the universe. Maybe he’d actually grow as a person instead of bemoaning his luck all the time.

As he walked out of the kitchen with the bowl in hand, James stopped when the doorbell rang repeatedly in a frantic rhythm.

He was barely setting the bowl on the table when the bell rang again with the same urgency. “I’m coming, I’m coming! Jeez...”

He looked through the eyehole and was taken aback by the sight of Clarissa’s face looking very harried and panicking.

“J-James” He heard her muffled voice through the door. “I need you, please...!”

Oh God... Oh God it had worked! It worked!

Desperately reaching for the key, he missed the keyhole a few times before finally unlocking the door and opening it with an eager and hopeful smile. "Clarissa, you're here-!" He was pretty much waiting with open arms to receive her love.

He did not expect her to barge through, bumping his shoulder and almost barreling him over. James would have fallen to the ground if not for the back he was holding onto the door, which he absently closed as he stared at the blonde young woman in shock. "Clarisa...?"

Now that he took a good look at her, he noticed she was wearing a black jacket and very tight shorts, highlighting her very toned legs. He blushed, noting they looked bigger than usual, certainly bigger than what he saw earlier today, even her buttocks looked larger and firmer.

She was shaking, holding onto her arms tightly while clenching her teeth as though she were in pain. "J-James, I need help" She was almost sobbing.

James felt a cannonball drop on his stomach. Oh God what had he done? "What's wrong?" Was the serum having an adverse effect? Was it harming her in some way?

"I-I don't know how to explain, I-" She winced and groaned, the sound of fabric stretching filled the room as he swore he saw her shoulders expand inside the jacket. "Oh God it's happening again!"

Before James could ask what she meant, Clarissa began growing.

Her height slowly rose a few inches, propelled outwards by lengthening legs that were widening with thicker muscles. Her toned runner's limbs looked like an Olympian bodybuilder now, filling up with larger mass and tone.

Her jacket's sleeves recessed, cuffing tightly around widening forearms that were all but exploding. To say nothing of her biceps and deltoids, pushing further against the fabric until the seams began giving out, exposing the sweaty toned flesh underneath.

Her strong six-pack jutted out from her core, expanding impressively as the cobblestones of hardened flesh showed a high level of definition, highlighting the depth between the muscles. Widening lats rose like wings, tearing at the shirt underneath her jacket. James gulped at the sight of those breasts pushing outward, causing a small rip to appear in the middle of them as two strong pectorals coiled with rippling strength.

With how she growled as her biceps completely burst through the jacket's sleeves, James was reminded of his comic book collection, particularly of She-Hulk. There was no other comparison he could give to properly explain Clarissa's miraculous transformation.

She looked like a bodybuilder, tall and strong, but that did not diminish her femininity in the least.

She stood there panting, looking at her own body with a disbelieving gaze. Astonishment, shame, fear, and confusion all mixed into one as she didn't know what to make of her state.

Then she looked at James, and arousal was thrown in the mix.

Faster than he could react, she lunged at him and pressed him tightly against her body with those powerful arms, smooshing his chest against her breasts while kissing him deeply.

James could barely react as his fantasy was coming alive right now. Well, his fantasy and a few extra steps. The spontaneous growth in mass was NOT part of the compound's purpose.

But he was barely thinking on that right now, he was swimming in elation from Clarissa's kiss.

Until she broke up, staggering back with a shameful look.

"I didn't- I didn't mean" She clutched her head in her hands. "I don't know what's happening, my body keeps changing and I'm having all these thoughts and my body keeps reacting, I...!" She squeezed her eyes shut, tears dropping from them. "I need help... I didn't know where else to go"

...He had done a terrible, terrible thing, James realized with horror and shame.

"I know what's happening," He said, feeling even worse as her face lit up with hope. "Come on, I'll... I'll explain"

X~X~X~X~X

The number of times James had dreamt of Clarissa being in his room was uncountable. The fantasies, both subtle and lewd, that had coursed his mind had kept him company and fueled his infatuation for the runner. But now they all took a backseat with the circumstances at hand. He didn't care that Clarissa could see all his powers that depicted anime and games, or any miniature collection he had on hand, nor that she'd pay any attention to them with how distraught she was.

She didn't deserve this, didn't deserve what he did to her.

So... he laid it all out. He confessed and came clean about his culpability in this entire mess.

Clarissa's expression remained... scarily neutral as she processed it all. But there was a small twitch in her features here and there, like her emotions were an utter mess so she didn't know what to emote right now.

As his confession finished, he explained what might be causing the growth. "Must be a metabolic reaction to your skin, bone and muscle cells. They're multiplying massively so I'd need-

"You drugged me"

Her words hit him like scalding water. They were filled to the brim with anger and loathing.

Clarissa's brow furrowed so deeply she was scowling, her jaw tensed and slowly bared her teeth. "You fucking drugged me you disgusting creep!"

James gulped, holding up her arms. "I'm incredibly sorry for what I did! I never- I never wanted to-!"

"To what?!" She jumped to her feet, standing half a head taller than him and notably wider from shoulder to shoulder. "You made a 'love potion' so I could fall with you! You were gonna make me your little slave! What else did you think would happen?!"

She stomped forward and he stepped back, shaking with fury. "You think this is a cartoon?! Do you understand what you wanted to do to me?! You were going to erase my autonomy about what I feel?! That's fucking disgusting you sick fuck!"

She palmed her chest so hard it let out a loud 'thud'. "And now I'm turning into a freak who can't control what she's feeling! I want to rip you in half just as much as I want to kiss you! Only I don't want to kiss you, you're doing this to me!"

"I swear I will fix it! I just need to go over my notes!" He kept backpadding, trying to save himself from the muscular teen.

"You better!" She snarled, the long wavy blonde hair did an excellent job at mimicking a lion's mane. "Or else I'll... I'll..."

Clarissa's voice trailed off, her gaze unfocused, pupils dilated and quivered.

The veins in her body were throbbing.

"I-ack!" She winced, squeezing one eye shut as if in pain. A rumbling sound bubbled at the back of her throat and slowly ripped out like a raging growl. "Uuuaghrrgh!" It was bestial, her pose was primal as she half-raised her arms to the side, flexing her powerful biceps.

Then she grew once more.

He could only imagine what the first growth had been, and having witnessed the second one... James could say for certain this growth spurt blew the first two out of the water.

It was staggeringly swift and insistent, the speed at which her mass swelled and the sheer speed! Her feet exploded her shoes, tearing the material and the fabric of her socks completely. Her calves expanded outwards into palpating inverted hearts, far beyond the width of her shins. Her titanic quads rubbed together as they closed the distance between them, inflating with rippling muscles that threatened to jump out of the skin with how tight and striated they looked. Her legs were monstrosities of muscle in the good sense, looking like she'd run across an entire city without breaking a sweat with those things. Her shorts came apart under the strain created by her enormous glutes, revealing the wet sex glistening at the front.

Her shredded stomach was not satisfied with its already toned level, so it sprouted out even more muscles on all sides. Dozens of sharp obliques frame the path carved by the eight imposing cobblestones that quivered as the rivers of veins passed over their surface.

Her already muscular arms became larger than his entire torso. They were enormous tree trunks of power that exploded with sheer mass, their volume humbled him utterly as he knew those biceps the size of his head could easily pop it were they to wrap around him. Her widening torso ripped the remnants of her sports bra and jacket, the mountainous range of her back muscles refused to be concealed any longer, tearing through and revealing their magnificent ripped definition. Her breasts swelled magnificently, pushed out by throbbing pectorals that grinded against each other like slabs of concrete, splitting the bra in half while her rising traps snapped the straps with ease, each deep breath caused the muscles to shudder and ripple.

James found himself looking further up, the growth had increased Clarissa's height monumentally. He was barely at eye level with her breasts, and her head was only a few inches away from brushing against the ceiling.

The behemoth of a woman Clarissa had turned into heaved out with breath so hot it almost became steam. She brought her arms down into a savage most muscular and roared, bulging every corner of her outstandingly muscular physique that would put any bodybuilder, male or female, to shame.

She was a real life amazon, with power and beauty coursing through her being.

She looked down at him and James knew he was prey when those eyes hardened with anger... and lust.

"James..." She grounded out.