

N.18 | MAY 2026

DADDYZINE

STARRING

SHIROU OGAMI

"I will howl until my enemies fall"

The Law of Attraction

Being the sheriff of Anima City is a full-time job. My badge demands respect, and I assure you my hand doesn't tremble when it comes to getting tough with the thugs trying to disrupt the peace on our streets. It's been a thousand years of patrolling, seeing the worst of society, and I've learned to maintain a serious, relentless facade. But I'll confess something curious has been happening lately. I thought a millennial wolf, with scars and tired eyes, wouldn't spark anyone's interest anymore. et, I notice the stares. I see how males and females turn their heads when I patrol, how they bite their lips. Suddenly, the precinct is full of trivial excuses just to see me, asking if I have time for coffee or if I'd accept a date. It's flattering, honestly. It makes me smile beneath this stoic expression, realizing that my authority awakens some rather... intense fantasies

The Millennial Musk

It's closely tied to what I was saying about the stares. That magnetism isn't just about the badge; it's pure wild instinct. Over the centuries, my body has matured in a different way, and my musk has acquired a depth that younger wolves simply don't possess. It's a thick, intoxicating scent, a mix of ancient forest, old leather, and millennial hormones that quicken the pulse of anyone who gets too close. It's a natural lure.

To give you an idea of how potent it is, the other day, while I was showering at the gym after a heavy lifting session, my sweaty t-shirt and my underwear vanished from my locker. Someone, clearly, couldn't resist the temptation to take my essence home to enjoy it alone in their intimacy. It's amusing and a bit wild to think that my own scent has such a hypnotic and aphrodisiac effect on the entire city.

A Kind Heart

People confuse being stoic with being made of stone. Yes, I am relentless with criminals, but beneath this tough-guy exterior beats the heart of a true romantic. A thousand years teach you to value the little things: taking a quiet walk at sunset, sharing a good hot coffee, or enjoying sports together. When I find someone worthwhile, I give myself completely and let all my defenses drop. I am deeply passionate about classic romance. I enjoy every second of a slow, deep kiss, feeling the other's breath mix with mine. I am in no rush in bed. I love making love slowly, exploring every inch of their skin, prolonging the pleasure throughout the entire night until we are both exhausted and perfectly satisfied. I am a protector by nature, and in intimacy, I make absolutely sure my partner feels like the most desired person in the universe.

I love all kinds of bodies. I don't discriminate at all

Unleashed Instincts

You might think that after ten centuries I've seen absolutely everything, but the truth is that life and desire always find new ways to surprise me. My libido is stronger now than in my youth. Centuries ago I was crazy for females, but over time my tastes evolved, and now males drive me absolutely wild. And I'll tell you something many don't expect from such an imposing sheriff: I love all kinds of bodies. I don't discriminate at all. I am fascinated by tall and slender males, the skinny ones I can completely wrap up with my embrace, the chubby guys with that incredible softness where it feels so damn good to cuddle, squeeze, and bite, and, of course, the big, strong ones I can test my own endurance against between the sheets. There is something truly unique in every single one of them. I love getting lost exploring every silhouette, smelling their sweat, licking their salty skin, and giving love in the warmest and most intense way possible to all body types. Feeling how they surrender under my hands, regardless of their size or weight, is right now my absolute biggest addiction.

A Date With Me

If you want to get close to this old wolf, my best advice is complete sincerity. I've lived a thousand lives and seen it all, so I'm not looking for mind games or drama. Being immortal, I've had to watch too many people fade away, and I've decided I don't want to hurt anyone, or myself, by trying to force a long-lasting relationship or seeking a "forever" that, for me, has a tragic meaning. But don't be discouraged, because what I can offer you is absolute devotion in the present. If you decide to spend a night with me, I promise you an unforgettable time, filled with devouring passion, genuine tenderness, and the best sex you can possibly imagine. I will make you feel entirely unique under my sheets, taking care of every detail with a thousand years of experience. It's an honest deal: no promises for the future, but a guarantee that, while it lasts, we will burn together deliciously. UwU.

RAYGAR
WOLF

